INTRODUCTION

SECTION A

INTRODUCTION

The primary purpose of the Alberta Directory of Family Violence Initiatives is to acquaint professionals and community group workers with the range of family violence initiatives available locally and provincially.

The definition of family violence as used in the Directory includes any abusive behaviour inflicted by one or more family members on another. Family violence often takes the form of physical, psychological or sexual abuse of women, children (from infancy to age 18) and the elderly.

SELECTION OF AGENCIES AND ORGANIZATIONS

Reflecting the broad purpose of the Directory, the agencies and organizations included differ widely in the range of services offered and the type of clients served. The criteria for including an agency or organization is that each must offer at least one service which focuses specifically on one or more aspects of family violence (for example, counselling services for abused women). Agencies or organizations which offer general services such as family counselling or health care, and who do not offer specific programs or services pertaining to family violence are not included even though they may provide some initial referrals or support.

Since services described in the Directory are specific to family violence, they may not reflect the full range of services offered by an agency. Readers wanting additional information on an agency's services should refer to the appropriate Social Resources Inventory or Aid Directory, or contact the agency directly.

For information about services available through local Family and Community Support Services, Family and Social Services District Offices, Mental Health Clinics, Health Units, or miscellaneous information and referral agencies, refer to Section H, pages 106 to 140 of this Directory.

Emergency services such as police, hospital, ambulance and welfare assistance can be located in your local telephone directory.

ORGANIZATION OF THE DIRECTORY

Agencies are organized into two broad categories: Province-Wide Services (Section C) and Community Services (Section D). Community Services are available in the towns and cities where the agencies are located, although availability in many cases extends to the surrounding area. Community Services are listed alphabetically, first by the name of the town or city and then by the name of the agency. To facilitate retrieval of information in this section, letters have been assigned to each page in the upper right corner. They represent the first letter of the name of the community(ies) found on that page. Province-Wide Services available throughout Alberta are also listed alphabetically.

Two indexes are provided to facilitate access to information on the types of family violence services that are available and the location of towns and cities offering them.

Index of Services by Location

The Index of Province-Wide and Community Services (section F, pages 74 to 84) alphabetically lists the towns and cities which offer services focusing on family violence. To use the index:

- locate the desired town or city in the index.
- turn to the corresponding page number of see if the desired services are available.
- if the town or city is not listed or does not provide the desired services, refer to the map provided on page 73 to determine the names of neighbouring cities and towns.
- refer back to the index to locate the name of a neighbouring town or city which is listed as having some family violence services.
- if the desired services cannot be located within close proximity, refer to the Province-Wide Services listed on pages 10 to 16 or seek help from the nearest Social Service District Office, Family and Community Support Services, Mental Health Clinic or referral agency. These offices are listed on pages 106 to 140 of this directory.

Index of Services by Target Group

This Index (section G, pages 85 to 105) provides a reference for services as they relate to a particular target group. (For example, if looking for counselling services for abused elderly people, refer to the section on Resources for Abused Elderly People). The Index contains a listing of the following:

- Public Education and Information Resources
- Resources for Abused Children
- Resources for Abused Elderly People
- Resources for Abused Natives, Immigrants and Visible Minorities
- Resources for Abused Women
- Resources for Abusers
- Resources for Parents

INFORMATION SOURCES

Information was initially collected through telephone interviews with staff members of the various agencies and organizations listed in the Directory. Many individuals from agencies not included in the Directory clarified their agency's services and directed our attention to other relevant services.

UPDATING

Updating was achieved by consulting the following references:

- The Community Connections Directories for Edmonton and Calgary.

- The Alberta Social Resources Inventory for the Northwest, Northeast, Central and South Social Service Regions.

- A Guide to Native Organizations in Alberta.

- Information gathered from the returned forms provided in the Alberta Directory of Family Violence Initiatives (see Section B, page 9 for a blank form).

TOWARDS NEW EDITIONS

In order to maintain a current edition of the Directory, the Office for the Prevention of Family Violence welcomes your comments about the Directory and requests your assistance in updating it. Agencies which are not yet included in the Directory, but which do offer relevant programs and services are encouraged to complete the form on page 9 and return it to the Office for the Prevention of Family Violence. Please inform us if your agency or organization is aware of other relevant services which were not included in the most recent edition of the Directory.

The form on page 9 will assist notifying this Office of the following:

- Changes in address or telephone numbers.
- Corrections needed in the Directory's description of services or the indices.
- Revisions to services offered, including additions or expansions to family violence services and/or cancellation of formerly offered services listed in the directory.
- Any other changes.
- New or already existing agencies that might not have been included in the Directory.

Complete the form for your agency or organization by identifying the following:

- the type(s) of abuse addressed (e.g. child abuse).
- the target groups focused on (e.g. abusers).
- any individual and/or family services provided which address family violence.

- any professional and/or public services offered which address family violence.
- any other detail that might describe your agency or organization.
